THE RESOLUTIONS.

"The alumni and friends of the University of Virginia residing in this vicinity, in public meeting assembled this, the first day of November, 1895, resolve "1. That we have heard with inexpressible regret of the late disastrous fire at the University and the consequent loss to that institution, and the cause of learning to which it has contributed so largely.

"2. That we hereby tender to the authorities of the University our sincere sympathies at the misfortune which has befallen the alma mater of so many of those present at this meeting; and trust that not only the alumni, but the friends of learning throughout the country will make her cause their own and use their best efforts to raise a fund which will enable the University not only to restore the rotunda, associated in our hearts with many pleasant reminiscences of our youth, but to crect other suitable buildings whereby the usefulness of the University may be largely increased.

After the appointment of these committees Mr. Floyd Hughes arose and read the following expressions from his father, Judge Robert W. Hughes, who had suddenly been called to Richmond:

JUDGE HUGHES EXPRESSION.

"I am under the necessity of taking the afternoon train for Richmond, and regret that the hour at which the meeting of the alumni and friends of the University is culled will prevent my attendance. But I leave an expression of my sentiments.

"The calamity which befell the Uni-tendance. But I leave an expression of my sentiments.

"The calamity which befell the University of Virginia a few days ago gave distress to every intelligent citizen of our Commonwealth. The feeling of our people for this institution is that of a father for his favorite child—a mingled sentiment of pride and affection. This feeling pervades the entire body of society, for in our State there is no jealousy, nor envy, nor antagonism between classes. All men in all the walks of life take an affectionate interest in this noble institution. We have many colleges which are the pride of the State, but our people take a special interest in William and Mary, the alma mater of the Presidents, and in the University of Virginia, whose alumni represent all that is good, patriotic, and philosophical in the politics and integetual culture of the Southern people.

"Fortune denled me the advantages

As a member of the Board of Visitors in the six years immediately following the close of the civil war, I had a part in re-establishing the University after the collapse which had overtaken it. My colleagues in this pious work were B. Johnson Barbour, a second Macaulay in graces of speech and pen; Marinaduke Johnson, of charming personality and genial wit; General Samuel H. person, but plethoric with practical wisdom and sterling worth, and John R. Woods, whose name was a synonym of success in agriculture and other useful undertakings.

"The politics of our board was not in harmony with the dominant sentiment of our people, for it was hopefully reconstructive and not regretfully retrospective. We devoted ourselves to re-establishing the University on a basis even broader than it had before occupied. We established new schools. We continued in position the best of the old professors—Minor, Gildersleeve. Holmes, and Maupin—and we elected new men to the other chairs—William E. Peters, Charles S. Venable, J. W. Mallett, and others, all names which proclaim their own culogy. We delided a system of water supply. We delided the chemical laboratory. We devised a system of water supply. "I have no fear but that the loss just sustained by the University, through the generosity of the people and Legislature of our State, and of its alumni in other States and lands, will soon be repaired, and that the present seeming reverse will only mark the beginning of a new and still brighter career for this great college."

Mr. R. B. Tunstall then announced that a subscription list had been prepared and that it was headed with a donation of $1,000 from Mrs. L. P. Selden. He walked over to the table and placed thereon a check for that amount signed by the lady. Mr. C. W. Grandy followed with a subscription of $500, and the following gentlemen each put down their names for $100: R. B. Tunstall, Robert M. Hughes, Dr. H. M. Nash, Judge T. S. Garnett and Capt. W. H. ### A Great Work.

During the past year the missionary work of the American Sunday School Union has been followed by very grati-ying results.

Union has been followed by very gratifying results.

There have been in the field 140 men commissioned, of whom 120 were at work during the whole year, and 20 during a portion of it. As one result of their labors 1.763 new Sunday schools were organized, having 65,977 teachers and scholars, 513 were reorganized, and aid was given to existing schools 8,324 times. But in addition to this large number of 2,276 schools set in operation, most abundant showers of blessing have followed the evangelistic labors of the missionaries. In many reports they mention only numerous conversations, in other cases only partial reports are given; and yet the very large number of 10,032 hopeful conversions have been reported as having occurred from the work of these faithful and earnest men. They also made 107,230 visits to families for religious instruction and prayer, and distributed 6.796 Dibles and 9,548 Testaments. The organization of churches has followed in 180 cases.

Rev. J. H. McCullough, superintendent of the Southern district, who is so well-known by many of the citizens of Norfolik, is making his annual visit to the city in behalf of this important work.
